

ITS America Elects New Board of Directors for 2007-2008

The Intelligent Transportation Society of America (ITS America) has elected its new 2007-2008 board of directors to lead the organization through its next year of operations.

Michael C. Doyle, CEO of the Econolite Group, Inc., will serve as Chairman of the Board of Directors for 2007-2008. He most recently served as Vice Chairman of ITS America's Board of Directors. Doyle has been the CEO of Econolite since 1978, while maintaining an active law firm in Pasadena, California. He is also the Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Huntington Medical Research Institute.

ITS America's board officers for 2007-2008 include Vice Chairman Randell Iwasaki, Chief Deputy Director, California Department of Transportation; Secretary Connie Sorrell, Chief of Systems Operations, Virginia Department of Transportation; and Immediate Past Chairman Tom Lambert, Senior Vice President and Chief of Police, Houston Metropolitan Transit Authority.

Newly elected members to the board include the following:

- * Ken Philmus, Vice President & National Director of Toll Services, DMJM Harris
- * Abbas Mohaddes, President & CEO, Iteris
- * Kirk Steudle, Director, Michigan Department of Transportation
- * Doug Terry, Senior Vice President, National Director of ITS, TransCore Holdings, Inc.
- * Bob Yakushi, Director of Product Safety & Environment, Nissan Technical Center NA

Re-elected as members of the board are:

- * Ann Flemer, Deputy Director, Operations, Metropolitan Transportation Commission
- * Michael Huerta, Senior Vice President and Managing Director, TSS, ACS, Inc.
- * Jack Johnson, Former President & CEO, Iteris, Inc.
- * Ray Pethel, University Transportation Fellow, Virginia Tech Transportation Institute